

WRAPTOR
CONTAINER LINER SYSTEMS

Wraptor PRX Series

Our PRX Series containment liners are engineered specifically for the challenges of wet hide handling and transport. Available in three different models, each is designed with increasing levels of durability to match the demands of the application. All liners are constructed using strong, woven HDPE fabric to provide reliable strength and containment, while our heaviest-duty model features a reinforced felt floor for added durability in the most demanding conditions. The result is a clean, dependable solution that protects containers, reduces mess, and gives customers confidence throughout transit.

Engineered For

WHAT'S INSIDE.

Our containment liners are engineered to protect shipping containers from moisture, residue, and contamination during wet hide transport. Built with durable woven materials, they deliver reliable containment in the toughest conditions.

WE ARE EXPERTS IN CONTAINMENT LINERS.

With over 30 years of industry experience, we are trusted experts in engineered containment solutions for demanding applications.

Three Levels of Protection

WrapTOR PRX liners are available in three distinct levels of strength and protection, designed to match varying cargo demands and transport conditions. Our Standard, Plus, and Extreme models deliver reliable containment while allowing you to choose the level of durability best suited to your application.

Benefits

Transporting moisture-prone and sensitive materials presents unique containment challenges. Our liners are engineered to manage fluids, odors, and contamination, helping protect containers, cargo, and operations while reducing cleanup and long-term costs.
